SUPPLEMENT

1. [REDACTED] the MUR (Movimiento de Unidad Republicana - Movement of Republican Unity) is a political organization formed by the Republican party members who belonged to the now-disbanded, Communist-dominated Union Nacional Espanola. Headquarters of the MUR are in Paris. It is affiliated with the Spanish Communist Party to a certain extent, and funds are put at its disposal by the Communists. It has few members in France, but its leaders claim a fairly large following inside Spain. In France, the MUR has more members in Perpignan than in any other locality.
2. In Toulouse, a telegrapher named Marcuera or Marcoira, who makes frequent trips to Perpignan and Carcassonne, seems to be in charge of MUR activities. The organization publishes a newspaper entitled MUR; its director is Francisco de Troya. Recently, de Troya complained to the writer Jean Cassou that the French Government had not authorized the publication of his periodical, and asked him to try to obtain this authorization. De Troya also asked Cassou to do what he could to obtain authorization for him to make a radio campaign, under the auspices of the French Government, to be directed to Latin American countries.
